Abstract (en)

[origin: FR2765781A1] The invention concerns a method for making a fashion accessory such as a necklace, a bracelet, rings, earrings, watchband or other fashion accessories comprising decorative elements threaded on a support strands. The method consists in crimping one of the ends of at least one cable formed by a plurality of strands, each strand being itself formed by a plurality of wires. The invention is characterised in that said cable non-crimped part is de-structured to isolate the stands and the decorative elements are threaded on the loose strands. The invention also concerns the device for de-structuring the cable for implementing the method for making accessories.
