Abstract (en)
[origin: DE2814110A1] The apparatus for self-massage of the back, with brushing effect by rigid hair, comprises a bearing surface (1) including projections (17, 18) which function it to exert a pressure locally limited onto the skin, when the back is in relative movement with respect to the surface provided with the projections. The projections are provided, by electrostatic means, with springing forward fibres further, the surface provided with projections has a curved shape so as to adapt to the anatomical shape of the back. The massage apparatus can be appropriately fixed against the wall next to the bath tub.
