Abstract (en)
A box sign has a rectangular housing and a rectangular frame for a front panel (14). One or more frame members (16, 18) have an elongate recess (22) which co-operates with an elongate rib (24) at the edge of the housing so that the frame is a snap fit onto the housing. The frame may be hinged to the housing by an internal linkage (26, 28, 30, 32) which causes the frame, on detachment, initially to move in the direction away from the hinge (D min to D), a rib (24) and recess (22) being provided on the side (12) remote from the hinge, and optionally also on the side (10) adjacent the hinge.
