Abstract (en)
A sailing rig for a proa which includes a pivotable support pole extending upwards at an angle from the main hull of the proa towards the outrigger thereof with a sail supported at the end of the pole. The sail is triangular and has one side connected to a luff spar which is pivoted to the support pole and the sail is disposed such that force exerted by the sail through its centre of effort acts through the centre of resistance of the proa.
