Abstract (en)

[origin: US4356929A] A pop-top lid with a pre-formed opening which serves for dispensing the contents, is located in the lid plane, and is provided with essentially parallel side edges. The lid also includes a closure part which is provided with a tab and is slidably guided along the side edges of the pre-formed opening. The closure part is provided with an uninterrupted peripheral groove which corresponds to the shape of the pre-formed opening; to limit the slide path of the closure part, an abutment or stop is provided.
