Abstract (en)

This invention relates to a reservoir or container for a dentifrice provided with a removable cover, in which container the toothbrush is stored - when not using it - in a position such that it is immersed into the dentifrice. For using the toothbrush this is withdrawn from the container and subsequently fitted by means of a screw or snap fitting at the top end of the container, the latter functioning thus as a handle. The cover having the shape of a cup, is used as a personal mouth-rinser glass.
