Abstract (en)

A machine in which the disintegrated wood material (30) with which the block is formed is fed into a chamber (20); the head of the rod (16) of a cylinder (13) slides in said chamber (20) and compresses the material (30) against the end wall (22) to form the block (31), while at the same time the rod (16) closes the feed aperture (23) for the material (30); during the withdrawal stroke of the rod (16), the rod (29) of a second cylinder (14) extracts the block from the chamber in which it has been formed in order to expel it from a mouth (26) either directly or by the action of the rod of a further expulsion cylinder.
