Abstract (en)
A method for adding a reinforced labeled tab (12) to a folder edge (26) of a file folder (10) of a file system is disclosed. The tab is prepared by applying a plurality of labels (18) to a carrier web (16) which has a pressure sensitive adhesive backing covered by a removable protective strip. A transparent reinforcing high tensile strength film is bonded to the carrier web and over the labels. A tab extension member (14) is added to an edge of a file folder by use of the carrier web. The extension member is approximately the same thickness as the folder edge and the carrier web is of a width more than twice the width of the extension member so as to be securable to the spaced sides along the folder edge. The protective strip is removed and the carrier web applied to both of the folder sides with the extension member secured between folded opposing adhesive portions of the web to provide a unitary labelled tab on a folder.
