Abstract (en)

The frame comprises a plurality of frame parts bounding an opening and interconnected at an angle, at least one frame part having, in a side face, a longitudinal groove (15) accommodating a jamb (5) protruding out of the side face for an element closing said opening. The groove is an undercut groove (15) widening from the side face towards the interior, for example, a dovetail-shaped groove. The jamb (5) has a protruding profile fitting therein. A frame part (11) can be connected with a further frame part (2,3) by means of a suitably profiled extension (16) at the head end of the further frame part fitting in the undercut groove (15).
