Abstract (en)

The method of mounting a prefabricated building wall involves fixing a lath (1) on an existing ceiling, and a second lath (2) on the floor, running in the same direction. The wall is mounted and supported so that one end is mounted over one lath and the other is mounted against the other from the side. The wall can be supported by fitting a groove (7) on one end (6) of the element over a lath (1) and a rabbet (9) on the opposite end (8) over the other lath.
