Abstract (en)
[origin: EP0101397A2] Rest sofa bed or chair comprising a chassis (1) supporting a frame formed from longitudinal members (12) (20) (22) (23) which are articulated together and braced (14) (16) (30) beneath the sleeping surface at different locations which are liable to reduce comfort, the mechanism being capable of being folded up on itself by means of principle links (8) in order to form the sitting surface, consisting of a suspension frame (28) (30) independent of the sleeping surface, and the back without additional external streamlining, the mechanism being sufficient in itself to form the sleeping surface, sitting surface and back. In the sleeping position, the bed-head frame (12) can be raised into several positions determined by a rack (42), converting the bed into a rest chair. The front face, joined by links (33) articulated to the sitting frame and to the chassis by means of hinges (35) (36) is interdependent, during folding and unfolding, with the mechanism. <IMAGE>
