Abstract (en)
A roadable container for storage of bituminous mix, at a road construction site and quickly erectable to an operative position, and which is characterized by a construction to avoid segregation of the particles in the bituminous mix, to avoid the need for a crane for its erection, and which includes a fuel compartment (26) and a conveyor (31) to dispense with the need for separate transportation of the same and producing a compact arrangement. The roadable storage container includes an elongated storage bin (15) embodying a fuel tank (26), a bituminous mix compartment (27) and a conveyor (31) arranged to load the bituminous mix in that compartment, such as to avoid segregation of the constituents of the mix.
