Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0118381A2] The equipment comprises clubs for hitting golf balls, movable holes and rolling or braking synthetic surfaces. A club comprises a pivoting head (6) of prismatic shape and having several faces. This head is mounted on a rod (3) which is integral with the handle (4). A stud (5) engages in recesses hollowed out in the head (6) in positions such that the face used to hit the ball has a specific slant. A spring (10) and a nut (11) make it possible to lock the head in the various positions. One application is the construction and equipping of courses with a surface area which is smaller than that of traditional golf courses. <IMAGE>
