Abstract (en)

The instant invention concerns a support plate for gas burners made in one whole metallic block. Once inserted in a top (the upper part of the cooking surface) which is fitted to kitchen furniture or to built-in units, it is possible to pair the nozzle-holder and the Venturi to the lower part of the plate itself and the flame separator to the upper part, on top of which saucepans or the like can be directly put using brackets set at the sides of the flame. Their function substitutes that of normal grids.
