Abstract (en)
A package with a straw (2) comprises a rectangular parallelepipedal package body (1) with a triangular flap (3). The package body (1) is formed in such a manner that a single cylindrical paper material with its internal side being covered with a predetermined material is cut into a number of cylindrical ones with a predetermined length, and at least one of the cross-sections of the cut cylindrical one is press-sealed and is formed into a rectangular cross-section. A straw (2) is removably mounted along the diametrical line of the largest one of the six faces of the package. The package structure further comprises a straw insertion socket (5) in the package body covered by the triangular flap (3).
