Abstract (en)
[origin: WO8502099A1] A bath-tub provided with a shower wall (6) comprises against its front free longitudinal side-wall (12) an upright (5) maintaining the shower wall (6) and thereby allowing a person to take a shower inside a separate shower cabin into the bath tub and which, when it is folded, does not prevent someone from taking a bath in the bath tub and does not impede access to the taps which are arranged on the walls surrounding the bath tub. The shower wall (6) is preferably comprised of two multi-element panels (6a, 6b) which are foldable together in groups and collapsably and pivotingly secured to the upright (5) by means of a strip (26).
