Abstract (en)

A multiple use neck ties structure comprises a body (1) provided with an elongate conformation, constituted by a first end section (2) and a second end section (3), both tapering towards a narrow central connector section (4), in which the first and the second end sections (2, 3) have characteristics of colour and pattern different from one another, and may be either the same width or may have a width different from one another. In this way, when a knot (5) is tied, the section (2) of greater width or the section (3) of smaller width is visible, the latter being outlined by the underlying section (2) of greater width. The intermediate connector section (4) can be made from the corner portions of a piece of fabric from which the said end sections (2) and (3) are made by cutting diagonally of the fabric sheet.
