[origin: US4870955A] A massage belt is disclosed comprising a peripheral, closed profile member formed of a resilient material deining a rim. Wire rails or rods extend transversely between the longitudinal portions of the profile member and at least three rectangular blocks of wood rotatably mounted on each wire rail. Each block of wood includes a bore for passing the wire rail therethrough. This bore defines an angle alpha of between 2 DEG and 25 DEG relative to one of the three mutually perpendicular axes of the block.
