Abstract (en)
[origin: WO8602620A1] Large containers and a method for storing castable, pasty and muddy materials are characterized in that sidewalls (5) of textile materials are used. The containers are particularly useful for the dripping and discharge of ooze and for casting concrete constructions. Supporting structures (6, 7, 8) which support the textile material (5) before filling may be removed once the containers have been completely filled.
