Abstract (en)
[origin: WO8605963A1] In order to ensure that no remnants remain on the surfaces of kitchenware following washing and then drying, the device is fitted with a container (2) which is mounted so as to rotate around its longitudinal axis. The inner space (7) of the container (2) is fitted with at least one water outlet and is designed as a receptacle for kitchenware (10). The container (2) is connected with a drive motor (3). The kitchenware (10) can be in the form of eating utensils and be arranged in a random layer in the interior space.
