Abstract (en)

[origin: US4761055A] Retroreflector for the reflection of electromagnetic rays suitable for destroying, by reflection or absorption, electromagnetic radiation, which could lead to a lasting detrimental influencing of magnetic or other data carriers. The retroreflector is constructed as a flat article formed from a base layer of metallic, juxtaposed reflectors with filter coatings applied thereto formed from a suitable metallic material, and provided with top coatings on a bottom surface and a top surface of the base layer.
