Abstract (en)
[origin: EP0243809A2] The device has a glue container, a glue removal cylinder, a glue application device, interacting with the removal cylinder, and conveying means for transporting, positioning and holding the book blocks to be glued. The method uses an elastically deformable pad as a glue application element instead of the profile or hollow cylinders used hitherto in order to achieve a complete and even application of glue to the backs of book blocks, even at their edges and corners, in particular the end faces, by optimum snug fit of the glue application element. <IMAGE>
