Abstract (en)
[origin: US4779723A] A pack consisting of a shell (10) and a slide (11) and intended for receiving cigarettes (cigarette blocks 12, 13) has an octagonal cross-section of the shell (10), with longitudinal edges (27) which each consist of two individual edges (28 and 29) joined to one another by means of a strip of material (30) going across the angle. As a result, side tabs (16, 17) of the slide (11) have less width, and there is a corresponding saving of material.
