Abstract (en)

The articulated housing 8 provides the locking in place of the contacts such as (1) plugs of the peripheral-TV connectors and comprises on its two sides (9) a rib 10 limiting the return of the contact means (1) by forming a stop for the guiding projections with which the said connectors are provided, in such a manner that the connection between the latter remains in place with the corresponding female parts in the case of defectiveness affecting the conventional latching tab. <IMAGE>
