Abstract (en)

Light-weight construction having a generally rounded cover, carried by a frame. The cover has a plurality of cover profiles (4), each comprising two flexible strips (7, 8) facing one another, and a stay bar (9) joining these strips. Each cover profile (4) has laterally, over a length L, two male strip portions separated by a distance d. The complementary female strip portions are separated by a distance D, greater than d. Two adjacent profiles (4) are joined together by inserting hoop members (11) of one of the profiles between the female strip portions of the second profile. The penetration of these hoop members (11) can vary between a maximum distance substantially equal to L and a minimum distance, where they are in cooperation with the opposed hoop members (12). <IMAGE>
