Abstract (en)
[origin: EP0254240A2] An applicator tip for applying nail polish comprising: (a) an elongated fibrous mass forming a shaped body (10) having a first end (12) for applying nail polish, a second end (14) for insertion into a nail polish reservoir, and two essentially parallel sides (19) extending from said first end (12) to said second end (14); and (b) a relatively rigid protector (24) disposed along said essentially parallel sides (19) and said second end (14) to prevent said shaped body (10) from permanently deforming or splaying. A pen-like (34) device for containing and applying nail polish, to which the inventive applicator tip is attached is also disclosed.
