Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0277286A1] What is described is a hinge fitting 4 for windows, doors or the like, which, whilst being of constructionally simple design and requiring only a small amount of installation space, can be used as a hinge for simple turning wings, tilting wings or folding wings, but which can also be employed on corner bearings and setting-out devices for turn-and-tilt wings. It is suitable in one and the same embodiment for selective opening to the right or opening to the left between the wing and the stationary frame of windows and doors, and its essential functional parts can be accommodated in a concealed and space-saving manner between the rebate faces of the wing and stationary frame. <IMAGE>
