Abstract (en)
[origin: US4877213A] A conference easel is provided with upper and lower frame sections and a pair of vertical frame sections pointed together by corner members in plug-and-socket connections. The profiled sections can be of tubular and can have projecting tubular portions forming channels accommodating edges of a panel. Two legs of tripod support are slidable in the vertical frame sections while a pair of flap profiles are articulated to the upper and lower frame sections to form, respectively, a clamp for a paper pad on the easel and a tray for writing compartments.
