Abstract (en)

The ironing board comprises a table (1) connected to a supporting framework (2) and having a box-like configuration. A heating resistor (10) is accommodated in said table. The peculiarity of the invention resides in the fact that it comprises a water vaporization duct (20) which draws from a water tank (23) and which extends closely proximate to said resistor (10) provided in said table (1). The vaporization duct (20) ends, with the interposition of a control valve (33), in a user appliance, preferably constituted by an iron (25).
