Abstract (en)

[origin: US4904199A] The invention relates to a support for a detachable junction between at least two cables each one equipped with a connecting socket. According to the invention, this support comprises: a box (1,6,7,16) with a cover (17) for receiving the two joined sockets; first stop means (9) to oppose the separation of the sockets; a lock (19) with a key (22) mounted on the cover and a latch (24) mounted on the box, the lock being arranged for enabling the operation of the key and its release only when the latch cooperates with the said lock, whereas the latch can cooperate with the lock, only when the cover is in a closed position, and second stop means (31,32) arranged in such a way that in case at least one of the sockets is missing, it opposes the closing of the box. Application to the cable support on works site.
