Abstract (en)

The accessory is foreseen with a small punching block (1), which can be taken from a sterilized make, consisting of superposed film cases (4), kept in position by the natural adhesivity of the material, to fit on microphones of telephones and citophones, and with a system of bores in the centre (2) for the sound passage. The initial operator can thus approach the wall (3) of the microphone to his mouth avoiding contages. The subsequent user will restore the initial hygienity condition of the microphone exposure wall (3) by throwing away the already used sheath: to do so, he will detach the said case (4) by initial lifting of its border.
