Abstract (en)

Reclining or sitting unit such as a bed, having a frame (1) with an adjustable head (2) and an adjustable foot (3), each provided with an adjustment device comprising a lever (16, 7), which is pivotably secured to the frame (1) and engages with one end the head or foot respectively and with the other end cooperates with a lockable gas spring (6, 10). Said unit having an energy-buffer (14, 19) into which energy can be fed and accumulated by moving the head, which accumulated energy supports the adjustment device of the foot. Said energy-buffer can be a spring (14), with or without a lostmotion-connection (15), which spring by means of a reversing gear (11, 12) acts on the foot lever (7) or by switching past its pivot point acts like a flip-flop. The energy-buffer can also be formed by a pneumatic connection between the two gas springs (6, 10).
