Abstract (en)
[origin: EP0336223A2] A clothing which can be fastened to a cleaning or opening roller (12) consists of a strip (14) equipped with teeth (15). As seen in a front view, the teeth (15) directed away from the roller have at least essentially the form of an isosceles triangle. The valleys (18) between the teeth (15) rise in the rearward direction. As seen in a top view of the side of the toothed strip facing away from the roller, the tooth crests (24) likewise have at least essentially the form of an isosceles triangle, the vertex (16) of which is located on the front side of the toothed strip (14). This affords a good combing effect and a good cleaning effect. <IMAGE>
