Abstract (en)

A portable net support assembly for racket and ball games comprises a pair of self-supporting posts (10,11) interconnected by a strut, which preferably is formed of several axially interconnecting tubes (19,24). A foot (25) depends from the strut to contact a playing court surface on which the posts rest to act as a fulcrum whereby the tension in a net (26) carried by the posts (10,11) is counteracted.
