Abstract (en)
[origin: EP0347285A1] The invention relates to a grid-like floor tile made of moulded plastic of polygonal shape. According to the invention, the tile (1) comprises, alternately, over at least some of its sides (4, 5, 6, 7) formed in only part of the thickness of the tile, an upper strip (8) from which stubs (11) project and a lower strip (9) in which are formed orifices (12) adapted to receive the stubs (11) of a juxtaposed adjacent grid-like floor tile. The invention is applied in the production of grid-like floors for any use. <IMAGE>
