Abstract (en)

A display-dispenser, in particular of the lollipop type, is described, which is made up preferably of a triangular base (5), on which is supported a body (1) constituted by a multiple group of cylinders (13), at a tangent to one another and located in a semicircular position. Each of these cylinders (13) has in its lower part a window (8) of a circular cross-section; a window (9), also of circular cross-section, is provided on the rear generatrix of each cylinder (13). The main body (1) is finished off in its upper part by a lid (2) self-centred and articulated by a hinge, which finishes off the said body in a shape similar to the base.
