Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0351345A1] The invention relates to a device making it possible to half-open a window, French window or sliding window, the complete opening of this requiring the release of a lock of the device. This device consists of a lock (1) serving as a joint for a half-opening arm (3), Figure 2, the effective length of which is determined automatically either by indexing or by friction, and of an arm support (4) oscillating about an axle and, if necessary, depending on the type of window, sliding perpendicularly relative to this. <IMAGE>
