Abstract (en)

An assembly of a wall panel (2) of a building and a support structure (1) therefor comprises angle members (11) each secured at one face to the support structure (1) and each with its other face extending towards the panel (2) to define a support channel therefor. The panel end (2) is spaced from the support structure (2) to define a gap to accommodate differential expansion between the panel (2) and support structure (1). In a preferred embodiment, the wall panel (2) comprises a composite structure comprising a layer of expanded foam material sandwich between sheets of board or metal.
