A chest of drawers is provided comprising an assembly of prismatic drawers arranged like the segments of an orange to form a rotating drum and containing an ordered arrangement of different items. The drawers are slideable on guide rails radially mounted on the opposite surfaces of two vertical supporting discs which are rotably integral with a horizontal axis journaled between the outer side wall of the chest. Placed within each drawer is at least a thrust member elastically urged so as to keep the items contained in the drawer adjacent to the front wall of the latter.
