Abstract (en)
A toothbrush wherein the brushing bristles (3) are flanked, along the pair of elongated sides of bristle-carrying head (2) by small resilient rubber-like cylinders (4) preferably provided as an integral body with a resilient lining (5) coating the three free sides of the bristle-carrying head. While the center bristles are provided for the routine tooth cleaning, the outer small resilient rubber-like cylinders perform a massaging action on the gums they come into engagement with.
