Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0372249A1] On a device for collecting balls, especially tennis balls, in order to collect up the latter for the most part and at the same time automatically in a short time on one half of a tennis court, and/or for smoothing the playing surface, a collecting arm (133) can be moved over the ground of the tennis court transversely to its longitudinal direction. The collecting arm is guided at one of its two ends in a running rail (guide part 135). <IMAGE>
