Abstract (en)
[origin: EP0388643A2] The light character according to the invention, in particular for graphic characters in external publicity, has a casing (3) containing a light source (1) in the form of the character which is open towards the rear of the character and a transparent panel (2) on the rear of the character, which projects beyond the circumferential edges of the character. Graphic characters which are produced with the light characters according to the invention can be applied regardless of the background and produce indirect illumination of the graphic character in permanently consistent fashion. <IMAGE>
