Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0389752A1] The invention relates to a sports shoe which is intended in particular, but not exclusively, for sports on grass and has an outsole (2) made of flexible plastic, on which there are formed in one piece, in the articulation region (G) on the inside and outside, upwardly directed support walls (4, 5) connected to the shaft side parts. To improve the deformation behaviour of the sole and simultaneously to maintain good support action in the articulation region, it is envisaged that the support walls are limited to the articulation region and are rounded in adaptation to the foot shape at least at the transition from the sole surface to the shaft side parts. <IMAGE>
