Abstract (en)
Knife for skin-diving activities, comprising a blade (1), a tang (2) extending from said blade (1), and a tubular member (4) inserted over said tang (2) and adapted to be slid from a first position wherein it covers said blade (1), to a second position wherein it covers said tang (2) and uncovers the blade (1). The blade (1) and the tubular member (4) are provided with co-operating releasable locking means (204, 304, 504) for firmly holding said parts in both said first and second positions. The knife is equipped with means (6, 201) for connection in a quick-releasable manner to a strap of a skin-diver's equipment as, for example, to his belt.
