Abstract (en)
A bed unit of modular construction comprises at least first and second rectangular base panels (15, 18) and support panels (8, 16, 17) by which each of the base panels is supported at each of its ends. The base panel provides support for a mattress, and can provide a storage unit for items of value. Additional panels (19) may be provided for increased privacy. Preferably, the width of each base panel is approximately half of its length to allow two support panels (16, 19) to be positioned side by side along a long edge of a base panel.
