Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0410299A1] A locking device for controlled, directional locking or blocking of a movement has a braking device (40) which prevents or releases rotation of a brake shaft in a controlled manner. A drive shaft (22) acts directly or indirectly on the element (11), the movement of which is to be locked or blocked directionally. A free-wheel (45, 46) which locks on one side is inserted as a coupling between the brake shaft and the drive shaft. <IMAGE>
