Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0414164A1] The invention relates to a lock for a suitcase or the like, having a locking member (28) which extends over the closing line (3) of the suitcase bottom part (1) and suitcase top part (2) and which can be displaced into the opening position by an actuating button (9), and, to obtain always exact locking positions in association with an easier closing of the suitcase, proposes that the locking member (28) be loaded in its opening position by a force accumulator (K) acting in the closing direction and be secured against transfer into the closing position by a feeler (43) displaceable out of its securing position as a result of the closing of the suitcase. <IMAGE>
