Abstract (en)

[origin: EP0416358A2] Arranged at the front end of a handle of a wet shaver is a shaving head in which a blade 3 in the form of a single or twin blade is arranged in a body 2. In front of the blades 3, the shaving head has a guide strip 6 which is parallel thereto and is arranged so as to be freely movable, perpendicularly to its longitudinal extent, on a displacement device 8 or on a swivelling device counter to a spring force. As a result, the shaving angle and hence the cutting geometry can be altered in a simple way. <IMAGE>
