Abstract (en)
This invention relates to a sweeper head support comprising a plate shaped elongated part (10) having a fastening means for a shaft. The part (10) comprises a downwardly facing flat surface (11) on which a softer layer (12) might be applied and an upwardly facing surface (13) on which there is a fastening arrangement for the sweeper head (27). The lastmentioned arrangement comprises edge parts (14) extending at the oppsite longitudinal sides of the elongated part each edge part having a flange (15) which is directed inwards and which is mainly parallel to and placed at a distance from the upwardly directed surface. The fastening arrangement also comprises at least one leaf spring (20) clamped between the flange (15) and the upwardly facing surface (13) the spring being so arranged that it presses the sweeper head (27) towards the flange.
