Abstract (en)

The automatic engraving machine, particularly for engraving the faces of plate-like elements in general and of glass plates in particular, has a base framework (1) which supports a platform (2) for retaining a plate to be machined which is movable along a first longitudinal direction. The framework (1) defines a bridge-like beam (12) which is arranged above the platform (2) and supports, by virtue of the interposition of means (16) for translatable motion along a second transverse direction, a machining head (13) provided with means (18) for vertical translatable motion and with means (20,21) for rotating about a vertical axis. The machining head (13) actuates a machining tool (23) which is controlled by a hydraulic motor (24) supported in the head (23).
